

North Side Fix now North Side MEGA Fix

Final project begins this summer

Construction to reconfigure the Interstate 270/US Route 23 and State Route 315 interchanges will begin this summer on the north side of Columbus. The $61 million project is estimated to take two years to complete.

Why now when the first project at I-270/US 23 isn't even finished?

Simply, the money is there. And when construction begins on this project, the new "trench" on US 23 that will carry two northbound travel lanes should be near completion.

Project Details

- Two separate ramps for US 23 south traffic - one that goes to SR 315 only and one that goes to I-270 west
- A new bridge for traffic coming from US 23 north and south to I-270 west that goes over the ramp to SR 315
- Additional lane and new bridge for I-270 east traffic exiting to US 23 that will go over the ramp from SR 315
- The loop ramp from SR 315 south to I-270 east will be eliminated and replaced with a new ramp that will go over SR 315 and under the new I-270 east bridge
- Additional lanes on SR 315 from SR 161 to I-270

Impact to the Olentangy Trail

About 1,000 feet of the Olentangy Trail will be reconstructed underneath the new interstate ramps at I-270 and SR 315. It is not safe for cyclists and pedestrians to use the trail during heavy highway construction. As a result, a portion of the trail will be closed up to a year.

the NORTH SIDE Fix

This is the Ohio Department of Transportation website for the I-270, US 23, and State Route 315 corridor north of Columbus. Beginning this year, ODOT will rebuild the I-270 / US 23 interchange.

On this site, you will find an interactive map, web cameras, project materials, maps, charts, graphs, and sign-up for traffic alerts.

The screenshot shows a map of the Columbus area with several callouts:

- Interactive Map: Click or Roll over an Icon, Get Directions, Find Alternate Route.
- Live Traffic: Image updates periodically.
- Navigation Menu: NORTH SIDE FIX, Click below to learn more, What We Are Doing, Traffic News & Interactive Map, Project Presentations, We're Glad You Asked, Contact Us.
- RECEIVE TRAFFIC ALERTS: A red circle highlights this button in the bottom right corner.
